| ADDITIONAL INFORMATION   |  |   |  |

Playing softball is the greatest skill I have learned. Through the years of playing this amazing sport, I learned more than just to hit and throw a yellow ball. The sport has shown me that you can't go anywhere without hard work and dedication. As every coach has said, playing this sport is only 10% physical; the other 90% is all mental, either a mental battle with myself to push for better with every sweat, tear, win, and loss, learning to never stop putting 110% with every pitch or rep, or just everything you can to learn more and more about the sport, wanting to better me every way I can. This sport taught me life skills that I use every day, such as being able to overcome obstacles. I only hope to better myself and my skills for as long as I can.
